SUMMER CHALLENGE

Six weeks. Three books.

You will never again get a stretch of time this long with nothing owed to anyone. Here is one way to spend a small piece of it.

THE HOPEFULL INSTITUTE

29%
of Australian teens do not read for pleasure at all

14 hrs
is what twenty minutes a day adds up to over the break

700
pages in those fourteen hours. Two books, three if you are quick

The rule that makes it work

Twenty minutes before the phone comes on. Not after, because after never happens. Put the book where you will trip over it.

BOOK ONE

One you choose. No one gets a say.

Title

Author

Finished

One line about it

BOOK TWO

One someone recommends. A friend, a parent, a teacher.

Title

Author

Finished

One line about it

BOOK THREE

A true story. Someone who actually lived it.

Title

Author

Finished

One line about it

Forty two days. Tick the ones you read.

Deakin University, Discovering a Good Read, 2024. Page count based on twenty minutes a day at an average reading pace.